What differences does it make, China's new IIT law?

Here is the news. The Individual Income Tax (IIT) law is marking its first anniversary, by gathering annual IIT filings across the country in April to June 2020, the very first time since its launch. It affects everyone, expatriates especially. Find out how the following are vitally important to employees AND employers:

- Would you become a Chinese tax resident?
- Would more of your income be taxed than before?
- What changes are brought to IIT filings?
- What preferential treatments can you enjoy?

Speakers:

- Ened Du | Senior Manager

She has over 11 years' practical experience in tax advisory for companies doing business in China, especially in customs issues, permanent establishment, cash repatriation and other tax matters.

- Elena Chen | Senior Consultant

She has over 11 years' practical experience in tax advisory, especially in individual income tax ("IIT") for foreign expatriates and Chinese outbound assignees.
