

Annual CIT and TP: Are you aware of tax cheating?

China's annual corporate income tax (CIT) and TP filing season is around the corner. How about some heads-up in a webinar?

This tax filing is more than an annual routine. It could unknowingly lead to serious tax cheating, if not properly managed and controlled. Special attention should be paid by the management and the controllers, especially in an extraordinary period hit by COVID-19 which might fuel the temptation to adopt a window dressing act via a tax means.

This one-hour webinar will address the following must-know topics, from a controller's perspective:

- » What is it about, this "annual CIT & TP filing"?
- » How could it constitute a tax-cheating act?
- » How to assess if your filing is "good" or "bad"?
- » What should be considered in a TP benchmarking for a COVID-19 affected period?

Join us! In an hour, you will know how to check the CIT / TP filing inside out.

To register, please click the Register Here button. Places are limited

About WTS China

WTS China is led by a former Big 4 senior tax partner, and comprises experienced tax professions practising at a quality level comparable to Big 4 standard. It has been in China for 15 years, serving finance / tax services predominantly to MNCs. Its clients include multinational groups, national and international medium and small-sized companies, in various industries.

Annual CIT and TP:
Are you aware of tax cheating?

Thursday, 29 April 2021

15:00-16:00 (China time)

Register Here