Tax reform under the epidemic situation

The COVID-19 epidemic has not only caused stagnation in international interactions, but also further stimulated the digital transformation of the global economy, in which countries are actively seeking changes in international tax rules in response to fiscal difficulties to resolve the crisis.

To cultivate professionals in international taxation, WTS has sponsored a summer class in international taxation for consecutive years, and will be lectured by Vienna University and Xiamen University professors. The summer class welcomes the following applicants: Young teachers, graduate students, outstanding undergraduates in law and finance colleges and universities, and finance and taxation professionals from corporations all over the country (including Taiwan, Hong Kong and Macao).

Registration Date : Before 5 July 2021
Lecture Period : From 19 - 24 July 2021
Lecture Location : Online
Language : English
Surprise : WTS sponsors a three-month study seat at Vienna University to the student achieving the best test score
