Dealing with “changes”

- in corporate development process

Change is a norm for professionals. It may be a policy-driven event, a reshuffle of a management team or a corporate restructuring. It might even be initiated by the management, for a new process or a better efficiency, etc.

How to handle changes is therefore essential to the success of the professionals and companies (often, they are not handled well and could lead to bitter results).

In this webinar, we will share with you a useful framework to manage changes with actual cases in corporate development and regulatory areas.
